SEA Statement on 2025 Public Service Recognition Week

WASHINGTON, DC – Today, Marcus Hill, President of the Senior Executives Association (SEA)—representing the interests of over 8,000 career federal executives in the Senior Executive Service (SES), Senior Level (SL), Scientific and Professional (ST) and equivalent positions and other senior career federal leaders, - released the following statement in recognition of Public Service Recognition Week:

The Senior Executives Association (SEA) is very pleased and proud to recognize Public Service Recognition Week, and thanks the countless number of American public servants who have chosen to unselfishly serve the United States of America.

In 1985, SEA led a trans-partisan civil society effort to establish Public Service Recognition Week. The vision was to identify and dedicate a specific time for Americans to celebrate and recognize those employees within federal, state, local, and tribal governments that are serving communities and our national interests. For 40 years, this tradition has and continues to be a stable, honoring these patriots annually, during Public Service Recognition Week.

Today, SEA's commitment to public service, good government and the core values necessary to ensure public service excellence remains steadfast. To those who have chosen to serve our nation and humanity through public service, thank you.
